CLEVELAND LEADER COMPANY. SATURDAY, JULY 8, 1865.

Further Bednetion of the Army. All who have the interest of the country at heart, and desire to see our expenses reduced to the lowest figures compatible with our safety, will be pleased at the course of our authorities, in ordering a forces. The following circular has been addressed to the commanding Generals of all the forces and departments except those of the Gulf, Army of the Tennessee, Provisional Corps Army of the Potomac, First Army Corps and the troops in Texas:

The Secretary of War directs that the strength of your command be immediately, reduced, for all arms, to the minimum necreduced, for all arms, to the minimum necessary to meet the requirements of the service, and all surplus troops mustered out. The musters out will be by entire organisations, including all additions thereto by recruits and from other sources. In selecting the organisations for discharge prrference will be given to veteran regiments having the shortest time to serve. The musters out and discharge arms. musters out and discharges, except for artillery, will be under the regulations pro-mulgated in General Orders No. 94, current series, from this office.

As has been repeatedly urged through these columns that we should husband our resources in time of peace for war; reduce the number of our armed forces to lifty thousand men and rely upon the military organizations for any sudden emergency which may arise. Let our forts and outposts be amply garrisoned, and further armed bodies of men be withdrawn from the restored States except in cases where they are actually needed. By doing so we shall reduce the national expenses and convince the Southerners that we have confidence in their declarations of acquiescence and develop a friendly spirit among them-

The Dactrine of Universal Suffenge. the Fourth of July generally rose to the full height of the occasion. Most of them stood ready to accept and proclaim the doctrine of the Declaration of Independence that "all men are created equal," and to earry out that doctrine to its logical result in the right of universal suffrage. Among the leading statesmen of the country who took this high ground in their addresses were Henry Winter Davis, Senstor John Sherman, General N. P. Banks, General Garfield, General Brisbin and others. We are sorry not to be able to include in this list the name of the orstor who delivered the address at the calches

The wheat harvest in Southern Illinois and Indiana has commenced. The papers of that section speak of the yield as enormous, and the quality as unsurpassed by the crops of any previous year. To add to the atisfaction of the farmers, the weather has been as favorable as they could desire, and the new crop has been harvested in the very best condition. From all parts of the country, says the Cincinnati Gazette, we have the same glowing accounts of the wheat crop. Corn and oats will be more than an average return, and fruit has never promised a more prolific yield. This, there-

A "Conservative" Position in Tennes-

A Nashville dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette, dated on the 5th inst, gives the following abstract of the speech of Ex-Governor Campbell of Tennessee, which we print, as illustrative of the position of Tennessee conservatives, and of a public sentiment which tolerates and sustains such

harangues:

The Press and Times, to-morrow, will contain a report of Ex-Governor W. B. Campbell's speech, opening the Congressional canvass at Lebanon on Monday last. He amounced himself opposed to all con-accessor, and said be opposed me amanci-pation Proclamation from first to last; that neither President Lincoln nor Congress had the power to abolish slavery; that nothing has yet occurred to abolish slavery in Ten-nessee; that the State Government was illegal and unconstitutional from beginning to end. Nevertheless he advised the peo-ple to abide by it until it could be legally set aside. He admitted that slavery was gone and could not be restored. He said further that he was always opposed to arming the negroes; that he would fight the ing the negroes; that he bistant abolitionists to death, and that the McClellan men of the North would unite with himself and President Johnson to op-pose any elevation of the negro. He did not think Jeff. Davis should be punished, and thought that all, loyal and disloyal, should now be put on terms of perfect

THE FOURTH IN MEADVILLE.

Readville Celebration-A Damper-Personal-Improvements of the Special Correspondence of the Cleveland Londer. MEADVILLE, July 5, 1865.

As had been previously widely an-nounced, through the medium of printers' ink and personal sourance, Meadville duly celebrated the newly and increasingly "Glorious Fourth." At the risk of adding one to the three score and ten commucations which you will receive, telling turther cutting down of our military of the calcuration at divers points in your State and others, I will send you a few items to show what this Yankeeized and energetic borough did upon that day. And as every one of the writers of that three score and ten will or have said. I request that if you omit all the others, you will insert this one, to gratify your "numerous readers" in this and surrounding towns.

For several weeks the managing comnittee of the Meadville celebration had isored almost uncessingly to insure the success of the undertaking, and I am happy to record their entire success. The celebration was every way a worthy and gratifying one, so far as human agency had the lisposition of it. At an early hour the people from surounding towns began to pour into our streets, which had been put into clean and extra presentable condition for the occasion. Thanks to the honorable Burgess and his assistants, there were no man-trape in the sidewalks to eatch unwary victims, and the participators in the fine procession had no sloughs of mad to wade through in the streets. The town looked fresh, clean and smiling for the reception of its guests. The Atlantic and Great Western Bailway Company had put on extra cosches and trains from the east and west and Frank lin, and these came in Isden with men women and children, until they seemed like huge champagne or sods water bottles, whose contents were effervescing over the platforms and steps. The Franklin train consisted of sixteen densely packed cars, and the trains from other directions were similarly packed. Many of the buildings in the village were handsomely decked with flage, hanners and motioes. Two finey conceived and executed triumphalarches for which we were indebted to Joseph Shippen, Esq., were erected upon the route Shippen, Esq., were crected upon the route of the procession, both having special reference to the soldiers to whom were assigned the places of honor during the day, or their comrades who had given their lives to the defence of their country. One across Chestant Street, at the Diamond, bore mottoes of welcome to the returning brave; the other bore the words, "In Peace may they forever rest." Both were very tasteful in outline, and very handsomety descent in outline, and very handsomely drawed and added much to the appearance of the ladies, sosked the provisions, scattered the crowd and played have generally.

The procession was composed of about thirty carriages, with officers of the day, guards, &c., &c., a battalion of about three hundred soldiers, and a large number of ci-vilians, on foot and in carriages. Music was furnished by the band of Co. K, 150th Pennsylvania, 15 pieces, and by the Forest City Band, of Cleveland. The Chief Marshal of the day was Lt.-Col. D. C. McCoy, sion was through Water and North Streets, past the Diamond to Huide Koper's park, about half a mile from the Diamend.

One thing was fortunate: the kind ladies who had spread the dinner, and had come to serve it, with their own fair hands, to the veterans of the war, had very sensibly left their silks and laces in their wardrobe, and donned must calloos for the day, so that, although, and looked as if they drenched through, and looked as if they had improvised a new bathing costume with hoops and long skirts, instead of blouses, yet they had no destruction of cost y fabrics to mourn. But another thing was unfortunate; our good friends from the country, and from the surrounding towns, the wives, mothers, daughters, and sweethearts of the boys they were t welcome, had of course put on their best clothes, and come forth to see and be seen. Alss, for them, when the floods came and the rains descended. They could not get under shelter, and their dresses were ruised if they didn't. Like certain promisone of the ablest lawyers of the West, has sory notes, they were "without recourse." been retained as one of the counsel for In spite of tucking their skirts under their arms, of pulling them over their hats and arms, of pulling them over their nais and bonnets, or of the temporary shelter of a friendly bush, they quickly became limp, bedraggied and disconsolate, while their esst while snowy snowy skirts and stockings were "of the earth, earthy." But the shower passed over, the sun came out, and despite this disagreeable episode, the dinner took place, hot coffee and cool lemonade and numerous toasts and happy resmoness making up in a great degree for sponses making up in a great degree for the unpleasant features of the occasion. In the evening there was a really fine display of fire-works in the arsenal yard, at which a great crowd was in attendance. As was before said, everything which uman agency could control was done to make the celebration a success, and nothing marred the festivities but the untoing marred the festivities but the unto-ward shower. The principal festure of the day and the prominent idea was a recep-tion and welcome to the returned soldiers and an expression of honor and remem-trantic or their departed fellow heres. To the committees of arrangements and to the ladies of Meadville especial and high praise is due for their energetic efforts to make the day one to be pleasantly rememmake the day one to be pleasantly remem-

Large celebrations were had at Greenville, Corry and other surrounding towns. At the former piece Harvey Henderson, Esq., of this place, was the orator of the day. Mr. Henderson has just been re-hom-imated by acclamation for the office of Prosecuting Attorney for the county, which is highly gratilying to his numerous friends. He is a young man, whe was educated at Alleghany College, and has astiled down in the practice of his profession among his friends and neighbors, in which practice I are cold to be seen as the control of the college. which practice I am giad to know he is highly successful. The people of the coun-ty have honored both themselves and Mr. lerson in this re-nomination.

Meadville is looking finely at this time The Diamond is a really attractive little park, and the fountain is at last in play, the swan disporting herself gracefully in the sparkling waters. In a few years the citizens will wonder how they ever allowed

General:—I do not suppose that the order of General Lee contemplates any immediate service, and the General comes to come I know that his votes are important, and, if I have not much respect for justice and humanity, I have great respect for the five-twenties. [Laughter.] I have great respect for the government and the possibility of carrying on its machinery, and if that constitution shall not come with essential provision, not that every negro that can read shall vote, but that all shall vote,—the body, the mass, the men we drafted into the army, we want to see them all. It is numbers, not intelli-General:—I do not suppose that the order of General Lee contemplates any immediate action in preference to the destruction of cotion, tobacco, etc. Go to his head-quarters in the morning to confer with him, and you will probably receive a communication from him during the day. Meantime do not issue an order of execution. For certain reasons I communicate with metamorphoses from veteran soldiers to you in this form rather than through the orderly and industrious citizens. UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

The following is the concluding portion of the people as the basis and criterion of Argument of Henry Winter Davis in republican government, and submit it this very winter to the Legislatures for their confirmation, and when it shall have received the assent of three-fourths of these that are now oration, in Chicago, in which he takes strong and high ground in favor of universal suffrage: We cannot govern these immense regions

by military power. That is to create pre-consuls, to whom armies will become de-voted, in whom the spirit of ambitious will grow and become strong, and who, like Casar, may march across the Rubicon, and under the insidious pretext of public good, America may become as Rome was. Military government over our vast territory is inconsistent with the permanence and is inconsistent with the permanence and integrity of the American nation. That idea must be ercluded. If you wish to attempt civil government, let it be organized; but the great American principle is that not only of personal freedom but of State government. We want no rebel State government. We want no rebel State government, for rebel government is better than a military government. We do not want oligarchies of pretended Union men, who have been so low and so far out of sight that nobody can define their relations to the rebellion, who have meanly sympathized with the power that was said. sympathized with the power that was and now are willing to be the instruments of the power that is. We want free govern-ment by the loyal masses. We will main-tain our rights and are powerful enough to maintain the government. It may be there is no white population in the South, taken en masse, that will conform to these conditions. After you have eradicated from the lit every man that you can prove to be a secessionist; after you have sifted out all you can call in any sense of the word loyal men, you have men who sympathized with the rebellion, paid their money to the rebellion, men to be relied upon in any amergency to stand by the cause against every secession friend at the North and secesionist at the South are rare. The secessionists at the South are the heroes of the South. Robert Lee, to-morrow, could carry every Southern electoral vote for President of the United States, and I am not sure that he could not carry some Northern States. [Laughter.] The reorganizing, therefore, of a State, on the basis of the white population, involves the instant change of the basis of power, the South having actually acquired representatives by the abolition of slavery, and coming back is a mass of population there that is on the side of the United States against all

FROM REV. M. ROBERTS. NORTH MADISON, LAKE CO, O.,)

February 24th, 1864. DEAR SIR:—I take much pleasure informing you that my daughter is much better of her deafness under your treatment. She had the scarlet fever when five years of age, which left her hearing seriously impaired, which counted also to be settling down into permanent, and, as we much feared, perfect and incurable deaf-

We were not a little fearful and unbeleving in any efforts to cure the case, having previously applied to other physicians without success. But under your treatment we soon found evidence of decided improvement. The offensive discharge improvement. The offensive discharge soon changed and indicated a healthy healing process. We are yet making use of your posseription, and we hope you will not fail to visit three parts again soon, as several of my friends are anxious to see the good Samaritan, that they may obtain a little of the oil of consolation for themselves. Respectfully yours,
M. Roberts.

From the Rev. B. T. Welch, formerly Pastor of the Pearl Street Raptist Church, Albany, New York.

Newronville, Nov. 10, 1865.

DR Lighthill.—Dear Sir: Allow me to express my grateful thanks for the skill and kind attention rendered to my daughter, whose ears have been badly affected for many years and for some particles. has since early childhood. The left ear, also, for several years, was seriou ed, and the disease apparently increasing threatening the entire loss of hearing. was with extreme difficulty that she could participate in the conversation of her friends, and for two years has been deprived of this source of social enjoyment Happily my attention was directed to your advertisement, and I was induced to place her in your care. Your treatment, under care of a kind Providence, has been sue cossful. Her hearing, so far as I can judge appears to be perfectly restored. or this restoration is permanent is a ques-tion time alone can determine, but present results are certainly very gratifying. I am, dear sir, Truly and gratefully yours, B. T. WALCH, D. D.
